COVID-19: What you need to know

- COVID-19 is caused by a new form of coronavirus that can lead to mild to no symptoms or to severe illness
- COVID-19 can spread by coming into close contact with a person who has been infected via respiratory droplets when they cough, sneeze, or talk
- COVID-19 can also be spread by touching infected surfaces and touching your face
- To reduce infection risk, stay home to avoid exposure and wear a cloth facial covering on your nose and mouth in public
- Additionally, maintain a distance of at least 6 feet when interacting with people outside of your household
- Wash your hands often for at least 20 seconds
- Everyone is at risk of getting infected, so stay protected and cautious

Clinic Operations: TELEMEDICINE

- A telemedicine approach will be used to attend to patients – current and new. Our first clinic with this new approach will be in session on May 9th, 2020.
- We will not be reopening our in-person clinic location until July.
- Patient medications will be refilled, as needed.
- Patients will also receive information on how to take care of themselves and reduce their chances of contracting COVID-19, as well as where to find resources such as food or testing.

FOR DONORS
